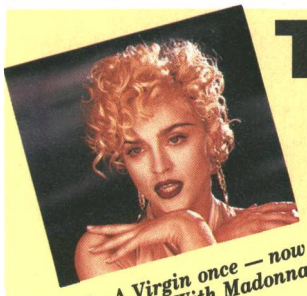
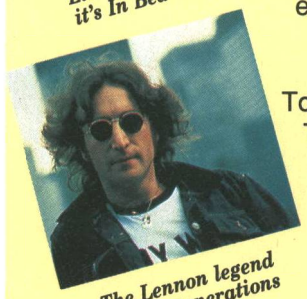
The Happy Birthday MTV Competition



Like A Virgin once — now it's In Bed With Madonna

Multi millionaire Michael, the No 1 wacko

Everyone's favourite 24 hour music station has been going for ten years this month. Well, ten years in America — Europe has had total music coverage for just four years, but already it's established itself as the most popular music channel across the entire continent — it beams into more than 60 million homes.

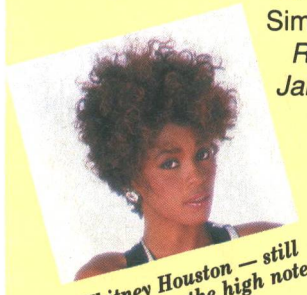


The Lennon legend lasting generations

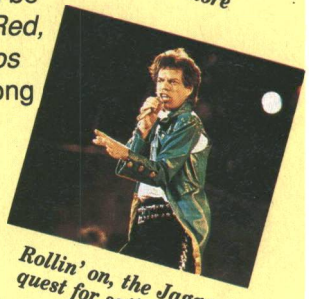
To celebrate MTV's birthday, we're offering ten great goodie bag prizes. There are MTV tee-shirts, music videos, bum-bags, rock trivia books — even an MTV mug.

Tina's turn at the top has lasted 20 years and more

So how do you enter this competition?
Simple. In the feature on Ray Cokes (page 4) it's revealed that Ray started off as chef. What we want you to do is suggest three records with titles that have something to do with a good meal. It could be Simon and Garfunkel's Parsley, Sage Rosemary and Thyme, UB40's Red, Red Wine, T'Pau's China in your Hand or even It's Gotta Be Jelly 'Cos Jam Don't Shake Like That! The records can come from any era, so long as the titles make for a good meal



Whitney Houston — still waiting for the high note



Rollin' on, the Jagger quest for satisfaction

● Send entries on a postcard to:
MTV Food Music, The Editor, Cable Guide, Communications House, 5 Factory Lane, Croydon, Surrey CR9 3RA by 1st September.
The editor's decision is final.

Turtle Terror Times 2

Parents beware! The cool green pizza-eaters are back from their sewer Hang on to your hats (and wallets), the turtles are back in town. This time they are starring in The Secret of the Ooze (opening in cinemas from 9th August). As you might recall, the turtles mutated into their back-flipping, knife-throwing, wise-cracking forms after being exposed to a mystery green slime.

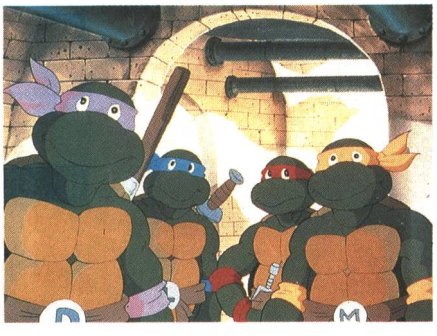
Half-Shelled Hype

In this sequel to Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, the ooze is being investigated by one of the best scientific brains on celluloid — the actor David Warner. Unfortunately, the ooze is thieved from his scrutiny by the villainous martial artist Shredder, who has plans to develop another strain of mighty mutants. Naturally it's a cry of Cowabunga and the green groovers leap into acrobatic action. Even though parents blanch at the prospect of the turles reappearance, the chance of a turtle-hype revival is likely.



When the film opened in the US, it grossed many millions of dollars within its first three days. And in the toy dep-artments of stores across the US, earlier this year, the Simpsons were displaced from their position of supremacy as the half-shell hipsters got back on to the best shelves in the shops.

Of course, the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles never really left our screens, they appear every day on the DJ Kat Show (Sky One 6am and 3.45pm wekdays) under the guise of being Teenage Mutant Hero Turtles (the change in name came because the TV powers that be decided that 'ninja' didn't mean much in the UK, also hero had far less violent connotations).

Acrobat Action

However, in this film, the celluloid turtles are more likely to resemble their cartoon counterparts. There's going to be less violence and more acrobatics and there will be the introduction of a new human hero — Keno, the pizza delivery boy (who is also a master of the martial arts).

And to add teenybop appeal, the rap star Vanilla Ice makes an appearance, singing the film's theme song Ninja Rap.

All this action is a long way from the original turtles. They were the creation of two young comic fans — Kevin Eastman and Peter Laird — who were tired of the cartoon capers of so many super-heroes. To rectify this, they wrote and drew the story of some very unlikely super powered mutants. As a mickey take of characters like Superman, Batman and Spiderman, the turtles were an immediate cult hit.

No-one was more surprised by the offer to make a film out of the amphibian anti-heroes than their creators. The success of the film, the toys and the TV series was such that Kevin Eastman made enough money to open his own publishing company — Tundra.

A lot of people have got rich from the tearaway turtles, but perhaps even their creators will be waiting for something new.

Cokes Is The Real Thing

Ray Cokes is Mr MTV — he might be doing a guest spot on TV in the US or hosting a rock concert in northern France. How come?

He's the Briton who's seen in the homes of some sixty million Europeans every day and is far better known on the Continent than any British politician and most of our rock bands. However, he's irreverent, does not appear to take himself seriously, disappears off screen to have conversations with his cameraman, mispronounces the names of viewers and constantly comments on the low-grade nature of his show. Three hours of Ray Cokes is enough to have the Foreign Office gibbering.

The question has to be asked: how safe is Britain's reputation in the hands of Ray Cokes?

Can't See The Join

He's a VJ — that's video jockey to the uninitiated — on MTV. He's been with the station from the start (its first broadcast to Europe was four years ago this month) and occasionally makes guest appearances as a presenter on American MTV, where he's regarded as one of their most dangerously unpredictable VJs. In fact, last year headhunters from the American company tried twice to persuade him to leave Europe and take on the US as a regular presenter. Needless to say, he declined. Ray Cokes is a committed European.

'I do really believe in Europe,' he says, 'Although I don't think it's going to happen now. My father's generation — the generation above me — don't believe in it. It's all too different. The federal state of Europe will happen. All the young people I speak to believe in it.

'I feel European because I have a little bit of everything. I lived in Belgium for nine years and France for three, so I feel that I want to live all over the place. Americans are always a little bit jealous because we can go and work in this massive area of land, which is really fabulous.'

Hail To The Chef

Ray's enthusiasm for Europe is understandable. After all, that's where he started out as a television and radio presenter. It wasn't a career that he had considered going into when he left school.

The versatile Mr Cokes actually started life in the Metropol Hotel, in Bristol, learning to prepare the best Anglo-French cuisine. From there he went to the Hard Rock Cafe, Brussels.

'I was very academic and my father wanted me to go on to higher education. I wanted to go off and see the world and earn some money instead. So I said "No, I want to be a chef", because I thought that was the easiest way to find work anywhere. So I ended up in Brussels. But because cheffing wasn't what I really wanted to do, I fell in with people from pirate radio, which was big in Belgium in those days. And little by little, I got more involved in music.

'I became a disc jockey in a night club, then a barman and then one day I was managing a record shop and a friend of mine knew a guy in a production company that wanted to sell a music programme to Sky. So I went along to the screen test.'

He got that job — 'because I spoke English better than the Belgians' — and although he was broadcasting Transworld Music to a small audience of about 2,000, one of his producers was sufficiently impressed by the Cokes charm to suggest that he try out for Image-In, a new and daily music programme on Belgian TV.

The Famous Belgian

'So they phoned me up and said we're doing the first ever French pop video programme and we want you to come along and do a screen test.

'I said I couldn't speak French. I went along with 40 Belgians to the audition and they were all writing out what they were going to say and I was looking round the room, having to really think for the first time about what I was going to do. But even though I was a bit shaky, I went in and did it and afterwards I was told that if I did a crash course in French I could have the job.'

Ray learned French and then made his name by systematically destroying it. Long before Antoine de Caunes made his name by wrecking the English language on BBC2's Rapido, Ray Cokes was inflicting linguistic barbarism on the French.

He had to learn the language fast. 'It was just school French. I was pointing at things in shops and going "ça!". But the director Michel Perrin — the only time in my life when I've had someone guiding me — said "Don't worry about it. Be charming and the Belgians will like you anyway".

A Caune-y Joke

'I was speaking French with an exaggerated English accent because I knew it went down well with people — you know "What a silly accent he's got" — and then they don't take it seriously and know you don't take it seriously either. It's not pretentious.

'Antoine uses a lot of visual gags' and I was using a lot of visual gags in my programme, because that sort of humour goes down well over there. So I was doing what Antoine is doing before he did it.

Funnily enough, we just sold a programme to French TV — a sort of Week in Rock — and I did the pilot. And I did it as a complete mickey take of Antoine de Caunes. The programme went to Canal Plus (a French TV station) where Antoine works and apparently they didn't find it funny at all. It was "Who's this guy taking off Antoine", when I've been speaking French with an English accent for years.'

Don't get the impression that there is a great rivalry between Cokes and de Caunes. 'He's brilliant and I really, really like him and I can understand why he's a success. I had that kind of success over in Belgium; I just didn't have the production team around me to sell it all over Europe, like he does.'

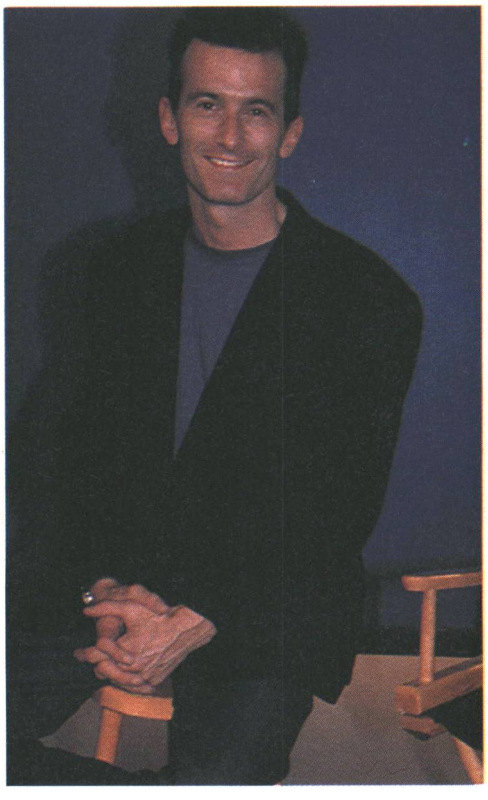
However, as Ray admits, he's not organised enough to set up his own production company. Nor is he conspicuously ambitious. He's one of the MTV VJs who doesn't have a manager or agent.

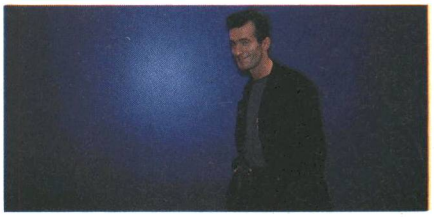
Five Year Plan

The way forward for Ray Cokes may not be on music television. 'Now that I'm into my fifth year at MTV, this is my last year. Five years is enough. I know that in America it's an unspoken rule that after someone has been there five years, that's enough. I'm not really talking in my show about what MTV's all about — I'm not talking about the music. I'm lucky to get away with it, but I won't get away with it for ever.'

Who's Next

To some extent this is because he's now used to working on TV. 'If you'd asked me about appearing on camera a year ago, I would have said "I'm nervous, it rips my soul apart, I don't like it, it's tough to come up with something new all the time. I could do the same thing all the time, but I like to make people laugh. Now I would tell you that I think it's fabulous.





One of the things that he's planning is a programme to discover the new Europeans. It would mean travelling across the continent talking to young people and celebrities alike to find out if there is such a thing as a European and if so, what the next generation is going to be like. It's the kind of idea that no-one would have had even two years ago, but as Britain moves into Europe, it will make gripping viewing.

The Write Stuff

His other great passion of the moment is writing. He's compiling a collection of short stories — 'Funny true stuff that has happened to people' — and gearing up to dive back into a novel. The impetus to write has been fuelled by the gift of a word processor, 'At home you can drink whisky and smoke cigarettes and all this stuff comes flowing out like magic.' The only time he uses it for MTV work is when he's compiling scripts for The Big Picture with John (DD) Dunton Downer who hosts the show's Cult Corner. Ray regards DD as a genius.

His love affair with technology extends beyond typing into a glowing screen. His motorbike is a passion that can't be matched. It's a TDM Yamaha that's just been shipped into the UK.

'I spend all of my life being stopped at traffic lights talking to total strangers about it.'

Surprisingly, he doesn't regard motorbiking as relaxation. 'I don't have to relax, I work three hours a day. It's the best job in the world.'

Well, the best job in in Europe for Ray Cokes, at the moment. He's the first in a generation of programme makers who look over the Channel instead of the Atlantic for success. And as Britain decides what it's going to get out of Europe, Ray Cokes is one of the best ambassadors we've got.

"...an adventure holiday for my husband and I, complete with helicopter lessons... a few bits and pieces... then a watch, a kitchen clock, a £125 bottle of Giorgio perfume, a riding holiday in Scotland ...and a Rover 820i Fastback!"

Mrs. M.B. WITH HER BEAUTIFUL NEW ROVER

"What can I say? My feet have hardly touched the ground since joining Competitor's Companion!"

"My feet have hardly touched the ground since joining Competitor's Companion!" What a wonderful letter for us to receive. And we have hundreds more from delighted competition winners in our files. Here's another written in almost identical terms from a lady who has just won a holiday in Florida – complete with a free rented car and £500 to spend. "I still can't believe it – my feet have just about touched the ground!" "I'm still on cloud nine"..."the shock was tremendous"..."I can't believe my luck"..."a magical feeling"..."It's such a buzz when you win"... these are all extracts from letters received in just the past few weeks. And Competitor's Companion subscribers DO win. As the letters we publish on the right show, not just once, but often time and time again.

"What a year," writes Miss L. H. of Nottingham, "I have had fifteen, yes fifteen, wins..."

£1 MILLION JUST WAITING TO BE WON

Yes, according to a recent Reader's Digest article, there are prizes worth some £1,000,000 on offer in consumer competitions at any given time in Britain today.

But to win, you must enter. And that's one reason why Competitor's Companion subscribers are so dramatically successful. Every month, we publish full details of every consumer competition worth winning in the country – the organisers, prizes, closing dates, where to find the entry forms – and when you don't need any entry forms! Yes, it's often possible to send 100 entries or more... on plain paper or a postcard. Which means you don't even have to buy the product!

Imagine how that increases your chances of winning. But that's just a beginning. We suggest the solutions. We do the 'Wordsearches', we 'Spot the Differences', we put the sales points in order of merit. And, every month, to assist and inspire you, we publish the slogans and tie-breakers that have actually won those big prizes over the previous few weeks. If you know what kind of thing the judges are looking for, you're halfway home! And to make them even easier, return the coupon below and we'll send you a super little book revealing the secrets of successful slogan writing learned over 20 years – ABSOLUTELY FREE. The information... the inspiration... the secrets of winning... and the sheer fun and excitement of comping... it's all in Competitor's Companion. We even offer free advertising so that you can sell or swap those unwanted prizes! Isn't it time you joined us?

OUR PROMISE – WIN A PRIZE – OR PAY US NOTHING – Yes – all we ask is that you enter our own C.C. competition plus four other competitions of your choice every month during your trial subscription and, if you do not win at least one prize in your first year, just send details of the competitions you entered and we will refund your first year's membership fee in full. In cash and by return!

And Mrs M.B. of Essex is not alone!

Every month, you'll find letters like these in Competitor's Companion.

"...when does it stop! In seven weeks I have won a video recorder, microwave oven, £500 cash and a £100 holiday voucher... slogan comps are my absolute favourite!"

"I've won a Proton car worth £7,500!"

"In the last 12 months I've won £5,000 (Cadburys), £3,000 (Imperial Leather), a weekend in Amsterdam (Mars), and today a luxury break in any one of seven continental cities. To all the people out there, you CAN win!"

"...a prize to beat all prizes – a Volvo 460-Turbo! Thanks for all your help."

"...a cheque for £500, an Action Weekend, a microwave oven, a Ford Fiesta... and my wife and I will soon be flying off to California!"

"I've won a £5,000 cruise on the Canberra."

"After just three months, a cheque for £500. Now a food processor, a £100 gourmet hamper and, would you believe it, a Renault GTX, taxed, insured and ready for the road!"

A Dragon Daughter

From the Far East to the West End: Tsai Chin's world of film

She made the move from Shanghai to central London and from playing sweet obedient girls to confident, power-seeking women.

Tsai Chin lived through Japanese invasion, civil war and the communist takeover of China before she moved to drama school at the high-powered Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London.

Light Break

Her big break came when she appeared in the West End in The World Of Suzie Wong. From there it was guesting on TV shows like Emergency Ward 10, Juke Box Jury, That Was the Week That Was and Dixon of Dock Green, and also appearing in movies like You Only Live Twice, The Virgin Soldiers and Antonioni's Blow Up.

However, the films that made her one of the most memorable faces of the '60s were the cult movies about arch-villain Fu Manchu (three of which are appearing on Bravo this month)

Despite this success, Tsai Chin couldn't stand the films. 'Lin Tang [Fu Manchu's evil daughter] was a dull character,' Tsai recalls, 'She was totally one-dimensional. Myrna Loy played my part years ago and she was a nymphomaniac.'

However, it's not just the boredom of the role that Tsai Chin objects to. Fu Manchu (created by novelist Sax Rohmer in 1911) is portrayed as a drug-smuggling, murdering kidnapper with never-ending plans for world domination. Unsurprisingly, Tsai is not keen on the images being put across.

Lazy Images

'I think stereotyping is a lazy and irresponsible way of doing things,' she explains. 'In the long run it's not very good for anybody. In America every production has some black people in it because that is how it is in life. I think probably it is happening, but it's slow.'

In addition to her feelings about the 'yellow peril' nature of the films, Tsai is not complementary about the plots of the movies. They were all the same: Fu kidnaps the scientists to force them to help him out in his plans to take over the world. The locations may change, but the stories didn't. In fact, by the fifth film, Tsai stopped bothering to read the scripts. She knew the story without seeing it 'I learned a great deal from doing Fu Manchu. I did five of the films,' she says, 'But once I didn't have to do them, I stopped.'

Since then she has been busy on stage and screen, including Leslie Woodhead's TV production The Subject of Struggle, and the stage shows M Butterfly and Madam Mao. Until the massacre of students in the notorious Tiananmen Square, Tsai took advantage of new relaxed attitudes and worked regularly in both Hong Kong and China, teaching drama. These included China's first production of The Tempest with the Central Academy of Drama in Beijing.

Playing Again

But that was before the outrages of 1989. 'I was very sad about it,' she says solemnly. 'I might go back to China, but — apart from going to see my relatives — in terms of work there is no point in going there because everything stopped; all the interesting things that you could do can't be done anymore. And I'm busy here.' It looks as if she's going to stay busy. 'I've just been commissioned to write a play for the BBC,' she enthuses, 'but I'll be appearing on stage again. The world will hear from Tsai Chin again? Let's hope so.

The Big Roundup

Set in Wales during the Dark Ages, The Boy Merlin is a thrilling drama that follows the adventures of a young apprentice. Merlin's grandfather, the King Conaan of Carmarthen, has mustered his forces in an attempt to overthrow the mighty Saxon High Vortigern. But in a cunning move Merlin is kidnapped and held hostage to force King Conaan to disband his army. If he does not, Merlin will die... (Saturdays, 10.30am).

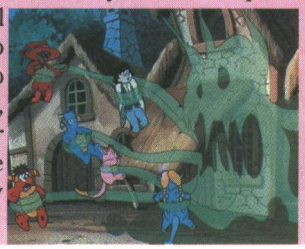
Meanwhile Tottie II returns (weekdays 9.10am from August 5th). The Plantagenets are a family of dolls who suddenly find that an ancient doll's house is to be their new home. Tottie, a Dutch wooden doll and leader of the family, finds her old enemy Marchpane has also come to live in the house. Marchpane wrecks the household, but it's not until she sends Birdie's little boy too close to the fire that things come to a head.

In the Little Wizards, (weekends 11.10am) the kingdom of Zedonia, is still in turmoil as Prince Dexter tries to regain his throne from evil sorcerer Renwick. With good wizard Phineas and the band of Little Wizards, Dexter has lots of adventures including one with a really ugly little elf and a singing sword and a time-travelling chair. But they also have to save a unicorn, fight off a dragon and deal with those things that go bump in the night before they can foil the plans of the evil wizard, who is out to stop Dexter, before our hero prince can finally stop him...



WELL DONE, THE NEW BOY

At weekends throughout the summer watch out for Michael Winsor, the brand new weekend pres-enter, who is bursting with endless energy and fresh new ideas. Originally from Leicester, Michael trained at The Arts Educational School in London before appearing as Buttons in Cinderella and singing alongside Sarah Brightman in The Music of Andrew Lloyd Webber. Michael, no stranger to television, started with TCC on 6th July, and is also a keen athlete who has survived two London Marathons. 'It's as well I'm a marathon runner,' he says, 'because of the stamina needed to introduce all the programmes'. Stay tuned for Michael Winsor on Saturdays and Sundays from

Furry Fact File

Vervet Monkey

- Length: 147 Cm (36 - 59 In)
- Weight:¡Approximately 7 Kg (15 Lb)
- It Lives: In southern Africa's savanna and scrubland, right up to the edge of forests, and also in the Caribbean.
- It Eats: Soft fruits, seeds, and flowers, often raided from gardens. It drinks hardly any liquid.

The Vervet Monkey moves about in small groups of about two dozen, and isn't afraid of man. A quiet animal, it only sends out an alarm call when it is in danger from big birds, snakes and leopards.

On The Road Again

Gaz Top (or Gareth Jones as his parents called him) is back On The Road. He starts the month as Gaz 'Top Gun' at a visit to The American Adventure Theme Park in Derby, where he'll be getting some lasso and gun-spinnin' lessons from Wild Westerner Rex Roper. And, as the football season creeps up, he shoots off to a football club, where he gets trained to be a soccer star, interviews players and groundsmen and gets all soapy when it comes to washing the players' kit. Keep off the roads later in August — that's when Gaz gets behind the driving wheel as he heads to Brands Hatch for an Early Drive lesson around a special course. Luckily he returns to Thorpe Park to learn how to parascend from a boat, jet ski, windsurf and even whoosh down a water slide. To round off, On The Road will be in Bristol covering the Bristol Balloon Festival. Gaz will get a bird's eye view of the area in preparation for checking out the street theatre and entertainments. So whether you want to shoot, boot or simply get very wet, get On The Road. On The Road The Children's Channel Weekdays (7.15am).

THE LEGENDARY 1935 MERCEDES-BENZ 770 K

The remarkable 1:24 scale replica of the motorcar so rare and unique it was available only to heads of state, dignitaries and businessmen of whom Daimler-Benz approved.

Mercedes-Benz' obsession with precision engineering has produced some of the finest cars in the world. And on very rare occasions, only for exceptional people, they went even further beyond their traditional commitment to excellence. Known to the world as the "Super Mercedes," the Mercedes-Benz 770 K was intended as the original flagship of the prestigious Mercedes-Benz line. Unparalleled excellence – created for heads of state . . . for occasions of state.

Precision-Crafted. Expertly engineered.
Now, Franklin Mint Precision Models re-creates this legendary automobile in the definitive scale replica. A precision-engineered 1:24 scale model authenticated by the Daimler-Benz Museum in Germany. Crafted from over 100 parts, hand-assembled and hand-finished with meticulous attention to detail. From the gold-plated accents to the deep crimson paintwork... from the vast array of operating features to the supercharged eight-cylinder engine.

The Mercedes-Benz 770 K was owned by some of the world's most influential men. From the Emperor of Japan to Germany's Kaiser to the King of Egypt. But even they could only purchase it upon approval of the Daimler-Benz company. You need only post the attached Commission Authorisation by the date it bears.

A West End Knight

Sir Ian McKellen has made the stage his own

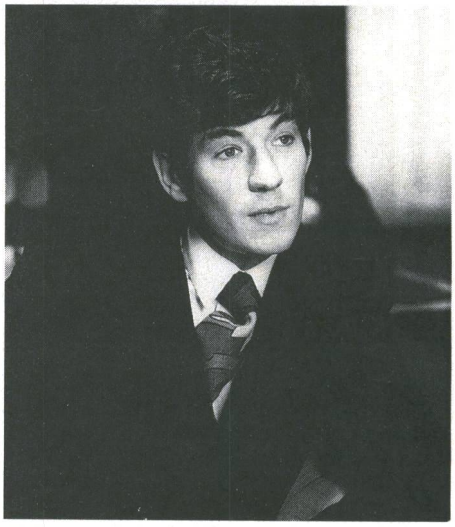
One of British theatre's modern 'greats' Sir Ian McKellen makes his appearance on Bravo this month in the film A Touch of Love. Unlike Lawrence Olivier, McKellen has not often been happy in front of the camera, so his screen appearances have been few and far between.

'Films are absolutely the worst of all. The actor is never told anything. It is so insulting, so rude and so despicable,' said McKellen some years ago.

Born in Burnley on 25th May, 1939, Ian McKellen was always interested in acting. His initial steps in drama came in My First World Premier, a play written his teachers.

From Bolton Grammar, McKellen moved to St Catherine's College in Cambridge. There, his contemporaries were actors, directors and person-alities who shaped the '60s. It was fellow students Margaret Drabble, who wrote the novel The Millstone which was the base of A Touch of Love.

Clive Swift, actor and husband of Margaret Drabble, once commented 'I've always thought that Maggie might have based George [McKellen's role in the film] a little bit on Ian.' In the film, Sandy Dennis plays an unwed London student who decides to get an abortion.

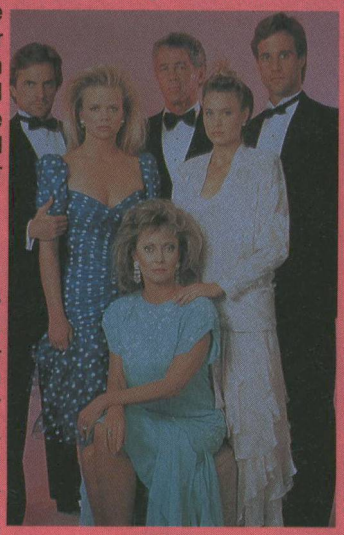


Although best known as a Shakespearian actor (he once played Edgar in King Lear nude — the audience were generally unphazed until someone inb Wimblwedon called out 'Nice one Cyril'), McKellen started to win wide public acclaim in modern plays, like Bent (a gay love story set in Hitler's death camps) and Amadeus (in which he played the villainous Salieri, rival to Mozart) on Broadway that started to bring McKellan the big theatrical awards.

Since then he's picked up far more television and film roles — the compelling Walter for Channel 4 when it started — Plenty with Meryl Streep and most recently as a cheating Cabinet minister in Scandal. But it's safe to assume that McKellen's best work will always be seen on stage. The advice being perhaps 'for the best in drama, try a knight in the theatre.'

The Soap Vote

Well the votes are in. The National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences have decided who are the outstanding talent in the daytime dramas. The Emmies for the soaps have been awarded: the tears will have been shed, the congratulations offered and now it's on to another year.



Santa Barbara's fabulous Capwell Family

Who Won What?

Well the major winner was Santa Barbara (2.20pm, weekdays, Sky One) — the most glitzy of the soaps. It won the prize for Out-standing Drama Series Dire-cting Team and Outstanding Drama Script Team. This month Gina goes cold turkey, Jeff gets implicated in a baby-stealing ring and Augusta is still praying for the return of her sight. However, the dashing Frank is revealed as a fraud. He's never set foot in space in his life! So it's not too surprising when Christie's mother turns to the demon drink for solace. However, things could get worse — and they do for Nick and Kelly, who get kidnapped in their own car. Mean-while, Jack's out to take control of a small country somewhere in Europe.

A Restless Win

The other big success story was The Young and The Restless (11.30am, weekdays, Sky One) who picked up Outstanding Leading Actor with young Peter Bergman and Outstand-ing Supporting Actress with Jess Walton. This month Victor finds out about Ash's abortion, Dr Laski diagnoses Faren's endometriosis and Lauren decides to have nothing but fun. A normal month for the most normal of families all round really.

Competition

We have five signed copies of Ian Mckellen's biography to give away to readers who can answer the following question:

● In what year did Sir Ian McKellen first portray the character of Walter for Channel 4?

Answers on a postcard please to the Editor, Cable Guide, Communications House, 5 Factory Lane, Croydon CR9 3RA by 1 September 1991.

Rockin' A Cradle

For VJ Pip, the latest addition to the Dann clan doesn't from cheer to maternity. Joanne Reed finds out the inside story on music and motherhood

A small crowd congregates in the corridor at MTV. Weaving our way through the bodies we find Pip Dann, with her is Marley, her three-month-old daughter.

Marley (named after reggae star Bob) is still at the sleep-through-anything stage. She's oblivious to the fuss around her. Before long, this tiny bundle with a quiff of fine, dark hair will be paying attention to the action. By that time, Pip will be able to return to our screens as presenter of Prime.

Originally from New Zealand, Pip and her husband settled in England three years ago. An actress and TV presenter Pip was the person who took over kiddie favourite Philip Schofield's show when he returned to Britain.

'News is what I enjoy doing most,' she says. 'It involves interviews; you're on camera, you're out; you're editing; you're directing your own pieces.'

Marley, Maiken and Mum

A hectic schedule, surely, for someone who's pregnant.

'When I was five months pregnant I filled for Maiken Wexo. It was obvious that I couldn't travel, so I did VJ work for XPO and Prime, up until the week before Marley was born,' explains Pip.

'There were no special camera shots to disguise the pregnancy, but I didn't make a big deal of it. I never mentioned it, it's not like I was sick. I just carried on. It turned out that few people knew, because it didn't show for six months.'

Was finding stylish maternity clothing a problem?

'I did wear shirts that were loose. Fashionwise, there's enough out there that's baggy and big. I just bought a size bigger. I found that jackets cover a multitude of sins. I worked at losing weight by walking to work,' says Pip. Clearly, a lot of walking took place.

Combining motherhood with a career in television could be tricky.

I Will Return

'My attitude was "Three months and I'll be back", but now she's here it's not easy. The hardest decision I ever had to make was going back to work and leaving her. I'll be bringing her in sometimes. But the ideal would be to have someone I could bring in with me to look after her,' explains Pip.

What about Marley following in her mother's footsteps?

'I hope she'll be more streetwise than I am; more able to discern. People try to sell you the "glamorous" side of the business, which it's patently not. You don't buy into that. You have to learn to see it for what it is.

Hiatt Hype

'I've had a fantastic time. I've done acting and I've met some amazing people. Was (Not Was) were fantastic. I didn't get a lot of time with Cher, but she was good. Interviewing Mel Gibson — I enjoyed that.

It disappoints me that wonderful artists don't get the publicity that the hyped artists get. But that's just part of the industry. Someone like John Hiatt, maybe because they don't get so much popular acceptance means they're special anyway. That's nice, but maybe not so great for the artists because they don't sell so many records.

Return Bottle

My job is to be enthusiastic about the artists on MTV and it's great when people like REM get played because you can be genuinely enthusiastic about them. There is recognition, though, that when artists do cross over and become popular — to the long-term fans they lose something.'

Despite having achieved so much in a relatively short time, Pip still hasn't exhausted every ambition.

'I'd love to do more acting, but the longer I leave it the less I think I'll do it. I keep losing my bottle. I've seen presenters who've gone back to acting, but it doesn't work, because once they're exposed as a normal individual on TV, it's difficult to to see them seriously as actors.

'I'd like to get into mainstream TV, but it would have to be the right show; something I could be involved in at the ideas stage as well as editing and presenting. Working on something like The Late Show, Arena or The South Bank Show or in the youth programming that Janet Street Porter runs for the BBC — those are the sort of things that I'd like to go on to. Those presenters have a ball.'

With her experience and personality, it's easy to believe that Ms Dann will fulfil her long-term ambitions. Although, as she points out, 'I've been lucky and you always are. You can do as much preparation as you like to get into this kind of job and you still have to be in the right place at the right time. And you have to be able to sell yourself.'

'So far,' says Pip, 'It's been neat.'

The Story of Rai Uno

There's more to Italian TV than you'd believe. Konrad Schuller takes a trawl through the programmes, the stars and the scandals Rafaella Carrà is belting out Do I Dream Again. Her peroxide blonde hair flies out behind her as she hits the high note. The Italian Alps round Val d'Aosta seem to reverberate on that note and the credits roll. And that's a wrap for Quanto Cala Il Sole (or Quando Calienta El Sol as it's better Spanish title; what it means is How Warm The Sun Shines), Rai Uno's most successful show.

It's not easy to persuade 11 million Italians to sit and watch TV when the temperature hits 40°C and the alternative to telly is spending an evening in a bar at the beach. But Rafaella Carrà and her male counterpart Pippo Bauda are Italian legends.

Pushing The Boat Out

When Pippo's show, Fantastico, reappears on the screen in December, Pippo and his chorus line of high-heeled, high-kicking go-go dancers will be pulling in 42 per cent of Italy's viewers. And not without reason.

Rafaella's show (7.40pm Thursdays) can only be described as grandissomo (massive), favolosissimo (fabulous) or bellissimo (exquisite) — a word that Rafaella uses 11 times to describe the acts during the show. Rai Uno's programmes are cheerful, colourful and expensive. If the topic of the extravaganza is Christopher Columbus, they will charter an entire ship. If it is fairytales, the studio will be packed with no less than 33 wolves, 6 grandmothers, 18 hunters and 36 Little Red Ridinghoods.

This gigantomania of entertainment is the core of programming philosophy — the supreme principle of which is general interest. The programmes are designed to suit the tastes and values of the average Italian family: and they are tremendously successful.

Rafaella Carrà keeping 11 million Italians off the beach

Rai Uno attracts 24 per cent of the country's viewing audience. In 1990 it produced 17 of Italy's 20 most successful programmes.

'Our policy is simply to attract the greatest possible audience,' says Guiseppe Nava, a programme editor at the station. 'That means nothing that is vulgar or against the moral convictions of our audience has any chance with us.' Rai Uno is successful because it is best in those fields where most Italians hold the same views.

A Generous Spirit

'Come down those stairs and show your beautiful legs!' Rafaella introduces Sabrina Salerno and her latest hit We Are Women. She sings a line: Oltre Le Gambe c'e di Più — women are more than just legs. Indeed, Sabrina Salerno's career in Italian TV has till now been based mainly on what a male presenter once called the 'generosity' of her breasts (she once had a brawl with model/singer Samantha Fox over who had the larger bust), the wholehearted display of which must bring people like Signor Nava very close the point where they might think that the principle of non-vulgarity should be re-stated.

That has happened before. And the cases in which they happened showed that Rai Uno is more than just a means of mass entertainment.

It's a political tool also.

Power Programming

In the Spring of this year, a strong cross-party coalition of MPs and politicians proposed a referendum to change the electoral system that had kept Italy's classe politica (political establishment) in power since the war. Rai Uno ignored the story. For TG1 (Rai Uno's news programme), the political campaign did not exist. This was the case until the political reformers won more than 90 per cent of the vote in the referendum.

An interview with Mario Segni, the most ardent advocate of reform, was recorded but never broadcast. For Maurizio Ricci of the independent newspaper La Repubblica, this was a clear case of political censorship.

Giuseppe Nava dismisses such allegations as 'games of the leftist press'. But, he can't deny the obvious fact that publicly controlled television in Italy is one of the strongholds of the country's notorious partitocrazia (the politicians tend to siphon off the profits of government into party funds), which the campaigners for electoral reform wanted to abolish.

Moving Heads

While the smaller stations Rai Due and Rai Tre are dominated by the Socialist and the reformed Communist Party, Rai Uno is the most influential of the three and a major supporter of the Christian Democratic Party (the politics are most similar to the Conservatives in Britain), who have been at the centre of all of Italy's political coalitions since the war.

The connections between television and politics are so close that it's only necessary to to look at who holds the power to make decisions in Rai Uno, to know which of the of the various clubs and tendencies is in the ascendancy. Gianni Pasquarelli, the present director general was installed when leadership of the Christian Democrats moved from Chiriaco de Mita to Arnaldo Forlani. Few people believe that there is no connection between Forlani's opposition to electoral reform and Rai Uno's decision not to cover the campaign for it. There was a similar story in the Gulf War. An interview with Sadam Hussein was recorded, but never broadcast because it was thought to undermine Italy's participation in the war. La Piovra (The Polyp), a very successful series about the connection between government, finance and the mafia was discontinued after Forlani said that he didn't like it.

Palermo Italiano

Never the less, TG1 (7pm daily), the country's biggest news show provides the British viewer with the opportunity to keep up with what happens in Italy. If Rai Uno's strong political bias is taken into account, even TG1 can prove to be as useful as TG7 (Tuesday 7.40pm), a weekly programme that sums up the political events of the last seven days.

If you want to improve your Italian, Rai Uno broadcasts a substantial number of British and American programmes. Every day at 1pm the series Roma, Londra, Hollywood brings anglo-saxon, comedy, action and romance. In addition to this, Rai Uno has recently bought the rights to a large number of Walt Disney films. Watching these in Italian is possibly one of the easiest ways to get used to the language — you're likely to be able to understand or pick up the plot quickly.

Sabrina explains 'We Are Women' to anyone who might not have guessed

Holidaymakers can find inspiration on potential destinations from Piacere Rai Uno (Rai Uno's Pleasure, weekdays 11.30am), a programme that presents the charms of the peninsula's provinces. And if your interest in Italy is commercial rather than pleasure, don't miss Emporion (Market Place, Wednesday and Thursday 10pm) a business and economics programme that has current information from the financial centres of Milan and Turin.

Barred TV

However, it would be wrong to look at Rai Uno merely as a source of information. It's in entertainment that it excels, and remember that the stars like Rafaella Carrà and Pippo Bauda are the experts in keeping entertained the European race who most expert in just having fun. Their productions are not supposed to be viewed with any concen-tration on the words. Instead they work like the background for a really loud evening in the bar — you don't have to understand what's going on. They deal with emotions — as does the other great Italian television star: the Pope. Rai Uno broadcasts Papal masses live every Sunday at 9am. 'We are an institution of Catholic inspiration,' says Giuseppe Nava.

A weighty gold cross rests in the deep neckline, which has proven to be such a firm base to Sabrina Salerno's career. It vibrates slightly as she sings Un universo immenso in più — from her latest hit. 'It's an immense universe,' according to Sabrina. Well, she 'd know.

BRAVO BRINGS 'EM BACK ALIVE

Nuts To Them Screwballs

Feeling alone, out on a limb and alienated? You may be depressed, but this is the stuff of Hollywood at it's best and worst in comedy or drama

Sometime back in the early '80s, all the women's magazines in the US were comparing the star potential of two women. As one, they all agreed that Cyndi Lauper would dominate the decade. Her kooky personality and undeniably strong singing voice were an irresistible combination to the talent-spotters.

She's made some fine, top 10 albums and been one of the leading lights of the International Wrestling Federation (of all things) but even her friends would admit that she hasn't set the world on fire. However, she has started branching into acting and she shows as much potential as an actress as she did when she started as a singer.

Pyramid Power

You can see her this month in Vibes. It's not the best film to start an acting career — she plays a psychic who gets caught up in a zany adventure with fellow oddball psychic Jeff The Fly Goldblum to discover a magical pyramid that is the gateway to a city of gold. The action takes place in New York and the South American country of Ecuador

Julian Sands is the villain interest and Peter Falk is the double-crosser (both look quite glad that the film isn't likely to get general distribution in the cinemas). Lauper is definitely one of the best things in the movie as she converses with her Noo Yoik spirit guide. If she gets some more off-beat roles she could be commanding the kooky dame high ground of other comedies in the '90s.

And the woman she beat in the opinion of the critics? Oh, some wannabe singer called Madonna...

Marx It Ain't

For real peculiar humour and the most off-beat bunch of characters to appear in a film for years, you could do worse than tune in to director Paul Bartel's Scenes from the Class Struggle in Beverly Hills. At the home of a fading soap star (played dead straight by Jacqueline Bisset), the bizarre family, and their far more odd partners, gather to celebrate the death of her husband.

Social System

That's the most sensible part of the film — from there it turns into a farce of sexual manners and a fair bit of bed-hopping. The title of the film revolves around a bet by the two serving men of the soap star and her sister — the struggling has very little to do with the ideology of Karl Marx.

From the 'Pool to passion, Shirley's life is just about to begin

The comedy won't have every-one rolling round on the floor, but if you've got a black sense of humour it can be hysterical.

However, if you want real oddness and humour so black that you might not recognise it, Society is unmissable. The story is quite simple: the son of a wealthy, society family thinks that his sister is going weird. Not only that, but everyone seems to be going a little crazy and no-one wants to explain why. It's only when his sister's coming out party gets rolling that he learns not only are the rich different to us, they really aren't the same race as us at all.

Lonely Hearts

If you can't stomach any more black humour and are looking for some belly laughs, be sure to stay in for Shirley Valentine. Pauline Collins takes the title role as the Liverpool housewife who decides to take herself off to the Greek islands for the holiday of her life. She leaves her unloving husband and her friendly kitchen wall to have a brief, passionate affair with a local restaurateur (played by Tom Conti).

It's a very funny film that had people talking about it as they left the cinema. And there isn't a bad bit of acting in the film — look out for Joanna Lumley, especially, she's wonderful. The film's made by the same people who brought you Educating Rita. Definitely one of the highlights of this month's films.

History Humour

For wacky humour, try Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventure. There's not a single bit of sanity in the whole movie. Bill and Ted are the kind of dozy, oddball American teens who give the whole continent a bad name. They are about to flunk their history course. In desperation they dump their crib sheets and travel back through time in a phone box to meet and round up historical notables such as Napoleon, Joan of Arc, Abraham Lincoln, Billy the Kid, and Socrates. Their aim is to have these historical worthies help them out with the exams. It's a very silly film and not to be taken seriously. Look out for, Keanu Reeves, he's a name to watch. He's got great of comic timing and has made a sequel: Bill And Ted's Bogus Adventure.

HOLIDAY HORROR

Cable's all set with a roster of sensational horror extravaganzas for the Summer holidays.

HVC quenches anybody's Thirst when an innocent young woman is kidnapped by a satanic brotherhood and subjected to brainwashing and torture at a remote farm in an attempt to transform her into a Baroness vampire.

Meanwhile The Movie Channel finds Tom Alien Skerritt in fine form in The China Lake Murders, the tale of a crazy big-city cop and a local lawman battling over who apprehends a serial killer first. And in a sequel to George Romero's 1968 cult classic, Sky Movies + awakes to The Dawn of the Dead, when military personnel find themselves trapped in a shopping mall with flesh-hungry zombies.

On Bravo Peter Cushing and Francis Paul Temple Mathews team up to exact The Revenge of Frankenstein, in which the good Doctor creates yet another creature, this time in a hospital for the poor and needy.

Murder is again afoot on Super Channel, as William Powell, sometime fiancé of Jean Harlow, joins Mary Astor to solve The Kennel Murder Case. And Dick Tracy Returns to Lifestyle to settle the hash of the 'Spider' and his eerie henchman Moloch, assisted by the fantastic 'Wing'.

And of course, this dose of mystery, murder and mayhem is just a taste of more than 530 movies you can choose from on Cable this month.

The Choice

Like dig it man. Oh yeah. It's psychadelic. Cheesecloth gets its annual outing as MTV zaps across the continent to cover all the different festivals on offer. From the Crystal Palace Bowl there's the Pixies and the too-marvellous-to-be-true Milltown Brothers (Barnsley lads, so they must be good); from London's Finsbury Park you get The Farm, UB40 and Omar — this man is destined for great things, so catch him while you can. Then on to Denmark for Iggy Pop, Debbie (oops, sorry Debs. That's Deborah) Harry and the fairly weird Deee-Lite. In Switzerland you'll find the likes of Dave Stewart and The Pogues. And from the grand ole US of A there'll be The Buzzcocks, Siouxsie and the Banshees and Morrissey (er... guys, we're in a new decade now. Er...like you dig, yeah?). Catch what you want in the Festival Reports at 7pm and 12 midnight, until Sunday 4 August.

So what else is new. Well, we thought we were in heaven when we heard it was Madonna's last words. Unfortunately, MTV are only announcing another programme on she who must be avoided at all costs. Anyway, Ms Ciccone will be explaining why she's Superwoman (apparently it's got something to do with wearing her knickers on the outside). Saturday 10 at 3.30pm).

From harpy to hip, that nice Mr Keith Richards will be muttering his last words to the sympathetic Kurt Loder on 17th at 3.30pm. Learn from the man (who's so laid back he'd fall off his Zimmer frame if it weren't for the Superglue) the real secret of Satisfaction and what it's like to be a boy soprano (a lot of hard drugs and strategically placed bulldog clips aren't the same, apparently).

On the subject of protecting endangered species, don't miss the Sting Rockumentary (11th at 5.30pm). Mr Sumner will be put under the musical microscope and his effect on the planet will be analysed. Popster, ex-Police-man and saviour of the people of the Amazon rain forests — is there no end to this man's media profile.

AND FINALLY... on 31st and 1/9 there's previews of those lucky folk who are up for the MTV music awards.

BEHIND THE SCREEN

Never trust your mum if you want to be an international rock star. That's what Michael Wilson discovered when Robert 'Addicted to Love' /'Simply Irresistible' Palmer asked him to join his band. Both were students at Scarborough Boys High School and young Palmer was so impressed by 14-year-old Wilson's 12-bar blues playing that he said if Michael could get a mouth organ then he could take those first steps on the road to stardom. 'Just concentrate on doing your O Levels,' advised Michael's mother. And so, as in all the best rock 'n' roll legends, a Business Editor was born.

The path to stardom in the City finance houses started with a degree in English from King's College at the University of London. From there it was a spell editing business magazines and then on to join the Inside Business programme for Thames Television. Since then it's been jobs presenting Thames News, working on the prestigious This Week and starting up The City Programme, just as the world of banking and business became a sexy topic for authors, playwrights and film-makers.

As for future career moves, there are many possibilities, and they are not all related to financial journalism. 'I have a general news background. It's good training and that's always useful.' He still has a 'hit list' of people he'd like to interview: 'Henry Kissinger [the US Foreign Secretary in the early '70s], ex-President Richard Nixon, Margaret Thatcher again — like everyone else — and ex-Chancellor of the Exchequer Nigel Lawson, again.'

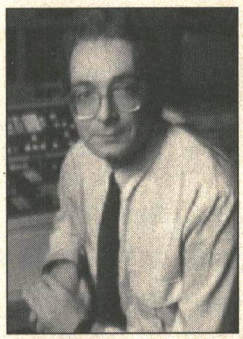
If there were only one he was allowed to interview and only one question the choice would be Nixon. And the question? 'Did he understand the public vilification he came in for during Watergate and how could he think that he'd get away with it?' However, Michael isn't sure that he'd get an answer to that particular question. 'He'd probably just get up and walk out of the studio,' he laughs.

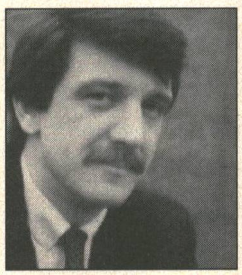
And the toughest challenge he faces? 'Well I'm learning jazz piano to relax and my teacher is a brilliant musician — but a hard task master. Certainly, going in to a lesson if I haven't done my practice can be far more unnerving than presenting the morning show live.'

SKY NEWS

Getting the story is the absolute aim of any journalist. Get any bunch of reporters together and they'll all tell you the lengths they have goneto in the past to find the story and get it back to their editors. However, the one they they'll all agree on is that luck is crucial if the story is to be yours.

Never was this more true than with the Sky News coverage of events in Yugoslavia. Sky was first with the story and the pictures of the events as they took place. The reason for this success came as much from the technology as from the fine reporting by Dan Damon (pictured right) and Aernout van Lynden (pictured below). To ensure that the television station gets the pictures that go with the story, time has to be booked on the satellite that beams the news from (in this case Yugoslavia) to Britain. At the beginning of the troubles, reports were filed in the town of Ljbljana and sent by land line to Belgrade where the story was beamed up to Intelsat and then down to Sky in London. Getting time on satellite, with so many news agencies all trying to be first with the story, requires a shrewd sense of when a story is going to break with an almost supernatural amount of luck. Once time is booked, it's paid for even if nothing happens. Sky News has now got round these difficulties by building its own satellite dish in Yugoslavia; naturally it still aims to be first with the news.





AND FINALLY... The enterprising Alison Holloway has got on her bike this month. She's covering the launch of a new Harley Davison (designed by Bill Davison) at rally in Cheltenham. So be prepared for all those Easy Rider film jokes and puns on rallying support.

Weekdays

5.00 AM Sunrise News

5.30 Beyond 2000
Bright ideas from around the world; very much like a constant round of articles from the magazine supplement of a heavy Sunday newspaper.

Tues-Fri: Newsline

6.00 Sky Sunrise News
Nicely balanced beginning to the news day. Light, but not so cheerful that you want to strangle the presenters. A fine change to the morning news on other stations.

9.30 Dayline

10.30 Beyond 2000

Wed: Fashion TV
Jeanne Becker takes a light look at the clothes, models and (dare we say it) frippery involved in the rag trade.

Thu: Beyond 2000

6.00 Sky News At Six

6.30 Newsline
Alison Holloway holds court over some very hard news and some very wacky news features.

7.00 Sky World News Tonight
What's happened, happening and going to happen. Penny Smith gives the lie to all blondes being bimbos and Scott Chisholm provides the gravitas. The in-depth coverage of issues of the day is generally good — the coverage of Irish affairs is particularly strong.

8.30 Beyond 2000

Today's Choice

9.05pm Bravo. Scream of Fear. Spooky Christopher Lee and the late Ronald Lewis star in this memorable 1960s horror chiller, which was actually the first psychological thriller from Hammer, once called 'the studio that dripped blood'. Susan Strasberg plays Penny Appleton, a frightened young woman who keeps running into the dead body of her father around the house, even though Stepmother Ann Todd tells her that he is simply away. We wouldn't believe her either!

Today's Choice

8.00pm Sky Movies +. Sing. Taking its title from a real-life competition that began in Brooklyn in 1947, this contemporary musical drama is set around a song-and-dance event which brings a struggling community together every year. Newcomers Peter Dobson and Jessica Steen play the two youths whose fate and fortunes we follow as they enter the competition, inspired by their dynamic teacher Lorraine Goodfellas Bracco.

Today's Choice

5.00pm Bravo. The Face of Fu Manchu. The first of Bravo's three escapist romps with the oriental archvillain who simply can't get his mind off World domination. From his secret headquarters he forces a kidnapped professor to develop a deadly poison gas. As Nayland Smith, Nigel Green's upper lip was never stiffer, sets out to foil Fu's plans with the help of bumbling, Watsonesque Dr Petrie. Great fun, with hair-raising chases in ricketty veteran cars through the cobbled streets of a pseudo nineteenth century Limehouse. (See feature page 7).

Today's Choice

10.00am Sky Movies +. Kid Blue. A treat for fans of both Westerns and The Method. Although some critics charged him with being too old for the role of the much-maligned Kid of the title, Dennis Hopper is superb as the train robber trying to make a go of things in the rapidly modernising west. Great support from John Ford regular Ben Johnson who oozes unpleasantness as the malevolent marshall, while the emminently reasonable Warren Oates tries to bring ancient Greece to the town of Dimebox.

Today's Choice

7.00pm Super Channel. Lady of Burlesque. A very unusual tale of murder and intrigue as the strange murders of several strippers are investigated by a determined lady. Taken from the true story of Gypsy Rose Lee, portrayed with verve in 1962 by Natalie Wood, it includes a dash of black humour and some incredible wardrobe outfits. Starring Barbara Stanwyck, and directed by William Wellman.

Today's Choice

9.40pm Bravo. Top Hat. Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers are back in this evergreen classic to dazzle us with knockout Irving Berlin tunes like 'Cheek to Cheek', 'Isn't This a Lovely Day to be Caught in the Rain' and 'Top Hat, White Tie and Tails'. The story is a simple one; a famous stage star pursues the girl of his dreams, but she mistakes him for her best friend's husband. watch out for Lucille Ball giving sterling support as a flower shop clerk.

10.15pm The Movie Channel. Drugstore Cowboy. Matt The Big Town Dillon and red hot actress Kelly Lynch star as a pair of junkie lovers who live for their next fix. Dillon, whose acting fortunes were restored by this honest and unglamorous movie, plays Bob, a drug addict who travels around Washington State raiding chemists and hospitals for narcotics. Now established as more than just an actor with a pretty face, Dillon has since appeared in the tense thriller A Kiss Before Dying, and will soon join Bridget Fonda in Singles.

Today's Choice

10.00am Sky Movies+. Mayerling. A classy remake of the 1936 French classic about the doomed love affair between the crown prince of Austria and Marie Vetsera, his young commoner mistress. Defying both convention and his father, Rudolph resigns himself to the loss of the crown as the price of pursuing the love of his life. Omar Sharif and Catherine Deneuve star as the young lovers, ably assisted by veterans James Mason, Ava Gardner and James Robertson Justice.

Today's Choice

10.00pm HVC. Thirst. A follow up to The Hunger? Not quite, but just as terrifying. An innocent young woman is kidnapped by a satanic brotherhood and taken to a remote farm where she is subjected to diabolical brainwashing and torture in order to transform her into a baroness vampire. Strong performances from 1960s face David The Charge of the Light Brigade Hemmings and Henry Johnny Cool Silva.

Today's Choice

6.15am The Movie Channel. The Naked Prey. Cornel Wilde both directed and starred in this gritty picture of survival in the African bush. When a safari party is ambushed and butchered after insulting local tribesman, its interpreter is spared and given a chance to escape. There's just one snag; stripped of all his possessions, he must make a hell-for-leather dash across open country, pursued by swift-running African warriors who would spear him as soon as look at him. It's a living.

Today's Choice

9.20pm Bravo. Caltiki the Immortal Monster. Financed by Italy, set in Mexico, filmed in Spain and finally passed off as American, this unusual movie tells of a radioactive mass which is discovered in a subterranean pool close to some Mayan ruins. When a dead diver surfaces with only the bones of his arm left, and another man who touches the killer glob goes on a murder spree, John Merivale, Dioi Perego and Giacomo Rossi-Stuart know that they're in for trouble. A must!

Today's Choice

2.15pm The Movie Channel. Zandy's Bride. A moving and gritty picture of life on the frontier. A tough pioneer rancher who thinks he owns his mail-order bride is dismayed to discover that she is a strong-willed independent woman who is not about to stand by and be treated as emotional baggage. Directed by Jan Troell, it is authentic, original and in places extremely moving. It also stars the laconic Harry Dean Stanton of Paris Texas fame, so you can't go wrong.

Today's Choice

9.20pm Super Channel. The Painted Desert. William Boyd, better known as Hopalong Cassidy, stars with Helen Twelvetrees and William Farnum in a romantic western which boasts some beautiful location scenery. It tells of feuding families who are horrified when their respective son and daughter fall in love. A well-worn plot that goes back at least to the days of the bard of Avon, but also features an interesting talkie debut from the young Clark Gable.

8.00pm HVC. Zoning. Set in a 78-storey skyscraper, this super crime thriller begins with two men who become bitter and twisted when they are sacked while working on the construction of the building. Thirsting for revenge, they carry out a series of violent robberies in and around the offices based in a covered hidey-hole in the basement. But how long can they elude the building's sophisticated security system? Norbert Lamla and Hubertus Gertzen star with Veronica Wolff.

4.25pm Lifestyle. Dick Tracy's G-Men. DT's back, this time in the shape of Ralph Byrd. Zarnoff, international spy and espionage agent, attempts to steal America's top military secrets. Dick and his chums, of course, won't stand for this, and the fireworks begin. Featuring one of the greatest cliffhanger endings ever to get onto celluloid, the movie also includes a young actress named Phyllis Isley getting her big break years before changing her name to Jennifer Jones and rising to international stardom. Some people have all the luck.

9.30pm Bravo. Hard, Fast and Beautiful. A classic drama from the early 1950s. Claire Trevor, eternally remembered as the touching but somewhat disreputable saloon girl Dallas in John Ford's Stagecoach, puts in a forceful performance as a dominating mother who pushes her daughter into the world of competitive tennis. Directed by English actress Ida Lupino, who also makes a cameo appearance along with Robert Ryan.

3.20am The Movie Channel. Torch Song Trilogy. The sometimes sentimental tale of Arthur Beckoff, his hesitant relationship with a two men man, and their attempt to raise a foster family, much to the disgust of mother Ann 'Mrs Robinson' Bancroft. Harvey Fierstein stars alongside Bancroft and Matthew Broderick in a screen adaptation of his own award-winning play about the life and loves of a drag queen. Bancroft steals the film.

THE FOURTH PROTO
-thriller starring Michael Caine, erce Brosnan and Ned Beatty
The in-depth quality cast (Julian Glover, Michael Gough, Ian Richardson, Anton Rodgers, among others) helps to give power. It's all there, a mole at our HQ, plenty of action, good performances (especially Brosnan) and a bit of the other. Enjoyable.

SPORTING FACTS

Live Racing Information on Cable

A NEW SERVICE FOR CABLE VIEWERS

The text-based racing information produced by SIS Ltd for licensed bookmakers has now been specially adapted for cable viewers in a new cable service... Sporting Facts.

Sporting Facts provides information on your favourite sporting events 9am–10pm, 7 days a week.

Sporting Facts is live in racing hours, providing up-to-date information from all 59 UK racetracks.

You can also follow the dogs, with information from selected greyhound tracks as the day's races unfold.

The odds, the running, the results... They're all on Sporting Facts. Plus details of other sporting events including football, cricket, golf and snooker.

Look out for live text information on these race meetings this month!

Lamp shown smaller than actual size of 24″ in height.

THE OWL LAMP

Illuminating art. By the modern-day Audubon.

Raymond Watson, the world's foremost bird artist, creates dramatic sculpture for your home. The Snowy Owl. Brilliantly sculptured to capture the texture of every feather. Crafted in fine bisque porcelain. Authentically painted by hand. And completed with a specially designed shade of silk.

A work of art even more beautiful when bathed in lamplight. With porcelain base hand-decorated in 22 carat gold. An impressive 24″ tall. Available exclusively from Franklin Mint.

Franklin Mint Limited, Bromley Road, London SE6 2XG.
